What next?

◆ Measure W funds start coming in to General Fund

By JULIA McCANDLESS
Staff writer

Winters voters have spoken, resulting in the passage of Measure W, which will increase the utility tax rate to 9.5 percent, and Measure Y, which stipulates that 60 percent of the increased revenue will be spent on public safety. But in looking to the future, the recent measure passages have many wondering: what now?

Winters City Manager John Donlevy said that residents can expect to see the utility tax increase on their bills as soon as July 1. The tax increase will be applied to PG&E bills, covering both gas and electricity costs, as well as telephone and cellular phone bills. According to Donlevy, the new tax will be clearly identified at the bottom of each bill.

Measure W is expected to bring in an estimated $400,000 to the city's General Fund, however the way the revenue

Downtown alcohol ordinances eyed

By ELLIOT LANDES
Staff writer

The city ordinance that limits establishments that serve alcohol is a tough one for the downtown area. It prohibits on-sale bars and restaurants from locating 200 feet from so-called "sensitive" uses, which includes parks, hospitals and clinics, other on-sale establishments, churches, playgrounds, and schools both public and private. The planning commission took this issue up at the June 22 meeting.

"Since I came to this city," said Economic Development Director Nelia Dyer, "there are a lot of ordinances that need tweaking. We have a lot of types of businesses, which makes it great, but it can be a problem to have an ordinance like this in place, especially when you have such a dense downtown with a lot of different activity and different uses."

Dyer asked the planning commissioners for direction on if and how to change the ordinance to enable new businesses for the downtown area. With new wine and beer projects coming across Dyer's desk, her hands are tied by the ordinance, with no way to approve the projects.

"At night, there should be more on-sale liquor establishments," said Dyer. "I've omitted hospitals from the list of sensitive uses. I've included wine tasting rooms and breweries, because this definition is somewhat antiquated, with terms like 'ballrooms and dance halls.'"

"We have in place the Winters Healthcare Foundation—the two clinics. We are trying to encourage agri-business with wine tasting rooms. Laura (attorney Laura Hollander) helped me out today. I was concerned whether the state had

Panel from sign found

The piece of the Winters highway sign that was stolen on June 17 has been found, reported Winters Police Chief Bruce Muramoto last week. The panel was discovered by a local resident in the field near Broadview Lane on June 23, and has since been recovered by the Winters Chamber of Commerce, which originally commissioned the $3,000 piece of original artwork.

Artist Jeff Hesemeyer says he is relieved that he won't have to recreate the panel all over again.

"I wasn't looking forward to having to rebuild an entire new panel and match the colors," he says.

Since the sign was dismantled to prevent further vandalism, Hesemeyer says he will take the opportunity to touch

All charged up about electrically fueled car

By JULIA McCANDLESS
Staff writer

After three years, two cars, and lots of batteries, the electric car has arrived in Winters. And it's all because of Gary Nooteboom, Anton Berteaux, and a little, good old-fashioned American ingenuity.

Nooteboom got tired of waiting for car companies to release electric cars to the public, so he decided to make his own. He partnered with mechanically inclined Berteaux three years ago to convert a Porsche 914 sports car into a 100 percent electrically fueled car.

Taking out the gas tank, engine, muffler and spare tire, the car is now equipped with 42 battery cells and an electric motor, allowing

Ann Verdin Whitworth

Ann Verdin Whitworth, 87, passed away on June 16, 2010 in Eureka after a brief illness. She was born on Sept. 23, 1922 to James Harris and Nellie (Cambron) Verdin in Rosebud County, Montana, where her father was a rancher. After his early death, she, her older brother James, and her mother moved to Council Bluffs and later to Iowa City, Iowa, where she obtained a Bachelor of Arts in English at the University of Iowa. It was there that she met her future husband, Rex Hancock Whitworth, who was on a Rockefeller medical scholarship from Cambridge University.

In 1944 they married and sailed to England where Rex served in the Medical Corps of the Royal Air Force. They lived in Manchester where their first child, Valerie, was born, and then in London for the duration of the war. Post-war, the family moved to California, where Rex practiced medicine in Salinas, San Francisco, and Monterey. They had four more children, Pamela, Rex (Rick), Victoria and Christopher.

Ann and Rex divorced in 1962 and Ann obtained her teaching credential and began teaching English at Pacific Grove Junior High School and eventually at the high school, where she was a great favorite with students and colleagues. She retired from teaching in the mid-1980s, enjoying many years of travel and other favorite pursuits. In 2004, she moved to Davis to be closer to two of her children, Valerie and Victoria.

She is survived by her children, Valerie Whitworth (Michael Barbour) of Winters, Pamela Graff (Stan) of Ann Arbor, Michigan, Victoria Whitworth of Davis and Christopher Whitworth (Janet) of Fieldbrook; four grand-children, Steven, Cecilia, and William Whitworth, and Spencer Graff.

She was preceded in death by her brother James and her son Rick.

In lieu of flowers, send donations in her memory to the Yolo Adult Day Health Care Center, 20 North Cottonwood, Woodland, CA 95695, and note on the check that the gift is in Ann Whitworth's name. Donations may also be sent to the Northern California Chapter of the Alzheimer's Association.

There was a celebration of her life on Saturday, June 26, at the Veterans Memorial Auditorium, 203 East 14th Street, Davis, CA 95616. Family, friends and former students are invited to sign a guest book at the Monterey Herald's website: legacy.com/obituaries/montereyherald/.

ALCOHOL

an issue with sensitive uses. The ABC (Alcohol and Beverage Control) has the discretion to deny permission with an over-concentration, if the public protests the density of these types of establishments. They have some definitions, but the ones I'm removing are not included.

"It's almost as if there's a change in establishments at night — the clinics aren't open at night. There are some vacant spots that will be filled (on Main Street). There are businesses that want to do this hybrid of retail and the wine tasting part. Right now the wine tasting part isn't allowed. To activate the downtown, we're trying to make it a little more flexible. ABC has the last call on this, when they decide if you get a license or not."

Dan Martinez, of Berryessa Gap Vineyards spoke, saying the ordinance could be changed only in places with ABC permits that allow minors, like restaurants and wine tasting rooms.

"We have everything down there in a concentrated area," said commissioner Bruce Guelden. "The Palms has noise issues right near the low-income Cradwick Building. It seems almost everybody is non-conforming in this town, within 200 feet, anywhere on Main Street. You're wiped out. They're there now. Somebody ought to put a lot of thought into this."

"We have a conundrum of stuff downtown," said commissioner Glen DeVries. "We need to make this pretty simplified so ABC doesn't come down on us or have a business be shut down by the ABC."

"It's distance to schools that concerns the ABC," said tasting room owner Chris Turkovich. "Typically, the ABC defers to the cities on the concentration issue."

"Is the day care considered a school?" asked Guelden.

"Public and private," said Dyer. "Yeah, it's very difficult. That's something that came up recently. A wine bar on East Main, a wine tasting room on Railroad. There will be more coming."

Dyer, who did not get a lot of specific direction, will be researching the subject more and bringing the item back on July 13.

Mobile food vendors

Another area where Dyer would like to tweak city ordinances is the ordinance on mobile food vendors. At the May meeting she assigned the commissioners the homework of thinking how to change the ordinance. Staff was asked to research how other jurisdictions handle the issue.

"The regulations as they stand now," said Dyer, "are thorough for stationery vendors, but I looked at how other cities treat mobile food vendors or eating carts. I have provided the City of Davis regulations. They have to move every 10 minutes. Woodland has similar rules."

The city of Eugene uses the idea of food cart 'pods,' as does Portland, according to Dyer. Vendors in clusters of carts sell in a designated location in the downtown Eugene public area. Five carts are there from 10:30 in the morning to 2:30 in the afternoon.

"There are very strict guidelines on who can be there," said Dyer, "and being Eugene, the city favors sustainable, vegetarian and vegan food. I will be sending around their guidelines. It's like how Davis or Winters manages the farmers market — how do they sit or stand, how they use bathroom facilities. It was difficult to find cities of our size that have ordinances on food carts.

"Right now its kind of a hip thing that's going on. It's kind of a response to the economy. It's a cheap way for starting a business for those that are entrepreneurs or have goals for the future.

DeVries asked if Dyer has an idea of a mix of how many carts. "We really need to keep a limit. There's probably three or four of them in town on Sunday."

Asked about the existing ice cream carts, staffer Jen Michaelis said as far as she knows, they don't have licenses. "Yes, but what are you going to do, call the police?" said Michaelis.

"It's like this parking ordinance we have now," said DeVries. "No one does anything about it. It's one of my big peeves. So many ordinances we have in our city that we take no action on."

"I say we keep them moving," said commissioner Wade Cowan.

Stan Lester said he was opposed to the mobile street vendors for Winters except for special events, especially in front of other businesses.

"Where is the incentive for business owners to invest," said Lester, "pay sales tax, property taxes, meet all the regulations, disabled parking and mitigation."

Lester listed cities that do not allow mobile vendors, including Napa, Sonoma and St. Helena. Grass Valley only allows carts to obstruct one quarter of the sidewalk space. Calistoga only allows carts to sell popcorn or cotton candy. Fort Bragg only allows vendors in one spot for 30 minutes along a designated route. In Yountville, a permit must be obtained and the planning commission must evaluate impact on adjacent uses prior to permission.

"In a word, we are in conflict with one another," said Lester.

"We need to have an ordinance," said commissioner Phil Meisch. "Ten minutes is an appropriate time."

Dyer said she can draft an ordinance that specifically relates to mobile food carts and number, time, location and where they can be.

Devries said he liked the Fort Bragg requirement to submit a designated route, with review every six months.

"I've drafted licenses that say 'Can be revoked on just cause,' said Dyer.

"I see the advantage of that intersection," said Dyer of the Railroad and Grant area designated for food vendors, "because there's a lot of traffic that goes through there. I talked to folks at Eugene, who said carts are for pedestrians - not for people doing U-turns.

Water efficiency

The city is subject to state law AB 1881 passed in 2006 that imposes environmental and conservation requirements for new landscaping projects over 2,500 square feet and 5,000 square feet for residences.

City Contract Attorney Laura Hollander said the city can adopt the model ordinance from the state, or create its own, but the ordinance would have to be as efficient as the state model.

The ordinance requires the applicant to submit a document packet that includes:

~ A water efficiency worksheet.

~ A grading design plan.

~ An irrigation design plan.

Over 20 cities have adopted their own plans, according to Dyer.

"I'll forgo the need to say this stinks," said Cowan. "It's insanely ridiculous. It will add a minimum of $10k to each home. I don't like to add a second water meter. If we have to settle - we could go with the existing (model plan).

"We should talk to a landscape architect and see what they say," said DeVries. "There's got to be a way to streamline this to make it easy for the homeowner."

"You'd have to hire a soils engineer and they'd be looking at pH — it will be over the top," said Wade. "It's like a Title 24 process."

As with the other items at the meeting, Dyer agreed to research the item further and report at a future meeting.

The next planning commission meeting will take place on Thursday, July 27, at 6:30 p.m., in the council chambers at City Hall. For more information, call 795-4910.

Community

Chamber hires new executive director

The Winters Chamber of Commerce hired Al Aldrete as its executive director on June 28. Aldrete grew up in Yolo County and lives in Woodland. He comes to the Chamber with a solid background in finance, a bachelor of arts in economics from California State University of Sacramento and has extensive experience working on chamber committees and boards in other communities in the region.

"We are very pleased Al has accepted the position as our executive director," Chamber President Myke Berna said. "He brings a great deal of energy, creativity and enthusiasm to the job, which will help us better serve our members and the Winters community. Al has been a small business owner himself, so he understands the needs and concerns of our members." Aldrete reports to the Chamber Board of Directors and will oversee the daily operations of the Winters Chamber and Visitors Center. He will be responsible for marketing the Winters community and businesses to local residents and potential visitors from other areas. In addition to promoting the various Winters events that draw visitors from around the region, the Chamber also strives to create a positive business environment for its members and attract potential new businesses that are compatible with the community. Aldrete says he is excited to be a part of the Winters community and is looking forward to working with members of the Chamber. "My hope is that by focusing on the strengths of the Chamber, we can make it an even stronger place for businesses to get connected and grow. It is my firm belief that the business community will provide the jobs to help us get out of the current recession," Aldrete said. "My first priority will be to assess what the Winters Chamber already does well and to work with our members to build upon those strengths. I plan to spend a lot of time visiting our members at their places of business to learn what they think the Chamber could be doing to better meet their needs. I also want to meet with key community leaders to get their thoughts about how the Chamber could partner with the city and other stakeholders for the benefit of everyone." Concerning the potential for attracting new businesses to Winters, Aldrete said, "Winters has much to offer a business looking to expand or relocate. The goal will be to find the right businesses that complement the Winters way of life." For more information about the Chamber, call 795-2329.

Poppy sales support soldiers

The Veterans of Foreign Wars will distribute Buddy Poppies in Winters on July 2, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Lorenzo's Town & Country Market, the Winters Post Office, Putah Creek Cafe and First Northern Bank. These poppies represent a tribute to fallen soldiers, sailors and Marines who lie in graves overseas. During World War II, poppies grew in a national military cemetery in Belgium and are recognized by veterans as a symbol of the sacrifice Americans made for freedom. Donations to the Buddy Poppy fund are used totally for veterans' relief and support programs.

CAR

it to go up to 85 mph and maintain a 55 mph average speed. "Electric cars are pretty much the only way a person can make their own energy and get from one place to another," Berteaux said. Making environmentally friendly energy is exactly what inspired Nooteboom to take on a project like this. When he was younger, Nooteboom said he saw the results of an oil spill in Santa Barbara, and never thought about cars the same way again.

"I walked along this beach, and there were dead animals everywhere, and a sea lion pulled up on the rocks, just sitting there dying," Nooteboom said. "And all these cars are just going right by on the highway, just non-stop. And I said 'These guys are all messed up. I don't want to drive like this anymore'." And now, he doesn't have to. Nooteboom said he plans to use the newly electric Porsche to commute to and from work in Woodland, charging it at night for 6-8 hours.

While the car conversion cost approximately $16,000, both Nooteboom and Berteaux insist that it's an incredible investment. The fuel cost per mile is about a quarter of what gasoline costs, and the batteries have been known to last up to 10 years. In essence, going green could actually save you some green, too. "It's almost like you're buying all your gasoline up front, it's actually probably a better deal," Berteaux said. "The pollution is a lot better, and we're not importing oil. There's a lot of things about it that are better." While Berteaux said that creating an electric car is complex, he expects that electric cars will soon be as common and simple as gasoline fueled cars. "There is absolutely potential for an electric car to be as easy to charge up as your cell phone," Berteaux said. Until then, Nooteboom will be the model in Winters for the next wave of the future in automobiles.

The Hucklebucks to perform at the gazebo

The Winters Friends of the Library summer concert series kicks off with a free outdoor performance by The Hucklebucks from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Thursday, July 1, at the Rotary Park gazebo.

The Sacramento band performs jump, blues and boogie, featuring Doug James on vocals, harmonica, and guitar; Robert Sidwell on guitar and vocals; Ty Smith on drums; Jim Monroe on piano and vocals; and Dale Lyberger on bass and vocals.

The Hucklebucks are the next generation in a long tradition of the blues. Their music was born in the south, left New Orleans for Chicago, swung through Kansas City, shuffled through Texas and emerged on the California party scene with a groovy, danceable beat called West Coast Blues.

The Hucklebucks have played the biggest venues, with superstars like the legendary John Lee Hooker and Rock & Roll Hall-of-Famers the Yardbirds, and they regularly sell out the funkier, low-down juke joints. While maintaining a schedule of more than 200 club dates yearly, the Hucklebucks have played for senators, basketball stars and for their neighbors' backyard barbecues. Check out their music at www.thehucklebucks.com.

The performance is part of the Winters Friends of the Library summer concert series. Everyone is welcome to bring a blanket or lawn chairs or sit on the grass, sip a cool drink, and enjoy some fine live music on a summer evening. The Friends of the Library will have pizza, ice cream and cold drinks for sale, and all proceeds will support the Winters Library.

Fourth of July celebration planned Sunday at Dixon May Fair grounds

The third annual Fourth of July celebration on Sunday at the Dixon May Fair grounds will offer more of everything, organizers said.

The public event, sponsored by Friends of Dixon May Fair, takes place from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. on the grounds at 655 S. First St. It will include a demolition derby, classic car show, motorcycle show, old-fashioned games, live music, fireworks and food and beverages. Admission to the grounds is free. There is a cost to attend the popular demolition derby, which begins at 6 p.m.

“It will be a Fantastic Fourth,” said Donnie Huffman of Vacaville, president of the Friends of Dixon May Fair, the event’s sponsor. “We’ll have more cars, more motorcycles, more games, more live music and more food and drink.”

Tickets are still available for the demolition derby, coordinated by the Friends and Tommy Thompson Motor Sports, Burney. Tickets may be purchased at the Dixon May Fair office and also at the gate.

“We expect a sellout,”

Huffman said.

Tickets for the demolition derby are $15 for general admission. Four-person box seats also are available for a total of $120 or $30 per person. Non-profit organizations will sell food and drinks during the derby. The Friends will offer alcoholic beverages for adults. Proceeds benefit community and school projects.

Among the contenders for the $7,500 in prizes at the derby are reigning champion Rich LaValle of Dixon; former champion Vacaville resident Tim Palacios, and Dixon residents Mike “Mad Mike” Doyle and his son Mike Jr.; Gary “Bubba” Moore, Mike “Moose” Kett and Ralph Garcia.

Rhonda Rayn of Dixon is coordinating old-fashioned games from 1 to 5 p.m. Events will include a shoe-relay race, tricycle races, watermelon-eating contest, wheel of fortune, petting zoo and “horse rides for the little kids.”

“For the shoe-relay race, we’ll have everyone take off their shoes and put them in a big pile,” Rayn said. The contestants will then run to the pile, find their shoes, and race back to the starting line.

The Knuckleheads of Dixon will coordinate a T-ball hitting contest.

Huffman expects the dunk tank will be popular, given the late June temperatures.

The classic car show will feature a wide variety of cars. A World War II pin-up girls’ team, Vicious Betty’s Pin-Up Dolls, will assist with the car show and also has booked bands to perform on the Leber Garden Stage.

The bands on the Leber Garden Stage, to perform beginning at 11 a.m., will include rockabilly, blues and oldies’ music featuring the Vintage Vandals, Political Plum, Infamous Swank, Switch Blade Frankie and Gin Ricks.

In addition, the pin-up girls will offer a rescue dog fashion show where attendees can adopt a shelter dog. The group’s website is <http://theviciousbettys.com>.

The Dixon Rotary Club will sponsor the fireworks show, scheduled to begin at 9 p.m.

For more, call Huffman at (707) 372-8683, or JoAn Giannoni at (707) 678-5618.

They should be held liable

Debra, I agree with your opinion on owner responsibility 100 percent. In my opinion we live in a “what’s in it for me” world, along with a “who gives a damn” world.

Owner responsibility isn’t all about pit bulls, although I had a personal experience with my 1 year old baby boy, and an neighbor’s pit bull, less than a year old.

For those of us who are wondering why pit bull owners should be held totally at fault, my baby boy, Trevor, was charged by a pit bull who was too young to have been taught by their owner. We were sitting, waiting for the mailman by the lock-box, and the pit bull puppy was walking on the other side of Broadway Lane.

When the pup saw Trevor, his tail went straight. When I saw this, I tried to distract the pup. When I saw that he couldn’t be bothered with me, I stood up and removed my sandal and left Trevor sitting, whilst maneuvering to be the separation wall between what was clearly a dog with hunting instincts and my son (who was already terrified of dogs).

Luckily, my aim was right-on with the sandal, because I slammed the dog as it was passing me by three feet, in the middle of the street, and it still didn’t know I was there. After that, I chased it into the owner’s back yard and the owner removed it from our neighborhood.

Owner responsibility used to be, and should still be, a liability, and not just with dogs: both the Lil’ Gangster wannabes and pit bulls.

I for one (of many I’m sure) am tired of the demise of our town by the tagging, attacks, stealing from our school music programs, defecating in the pool, and the killing of responsible kids’ animals at ag site, and then... the Winters sign, and a few days later, the road sign over Interstate 505.

I will not bow down because some lame parents/owners can’t control the liability they chose to accept. I am willing to volunteer two nights a month to be a neighbor who watches with a cell-phone. I see “neighborhood watch” programs in the bigger cities and think we are a city as small as this big-city neighborhood.

Why isn’t it OK to force the responsible owner/parent to be liable? We don’t even get the kids/lil’ gangsta wannabe’s last names after they get caught doing the very thing I want to volunteer to help stop.

I guess if it was a vicious dog we’d know the owner, but a punk, well, they’re protected, as is the parent.

TROY GRINBERGS

Stricter laws for pit bulls needed

Debra, that column you wrote about the pit bulls was great. Here in Colorado Springs, we have a lot of laws about animals. In the city limits, people are only allowed one pit bull or other (what they consider a vicious) dog. Any more than that is considered a pack.

People can get tickets if their pit bulls mate, unless they are breeders. Many apartment buildings and landlords do not allow vicious breed dogs. Some homeowners associations forbid these dogs. And what’s worse is that if you buy a house and own what is considered a vicious dog, you cannot get homeowner’s insurance. It used to be when you had homeowners insurance, it would cover if your dog hurt someone on your property.

Pit bulls can get a bad rap — not just because of their name. Years ago one of my daughters had a pit bull. He was her baby (at the time). He was kind, patient with kids and very well-behaved.

She gave the dog to someone because the dog didn’t understand when she became pregnant. The man that later owned the dog took really good care of him. He was in the military. The dog was a pussycat.

One day, for some reason that I don’t remember, some little kid stuck his fingers in the fence and the dog snapped at him. Never drew blood nor made contact, just snapped. The kid’s parents called the Humane Society and the dog was impounded. It didn’t matter that the kid had been teasing the dog or had stuck his fingers in the fence, nor did it matter that the dog never bit the child. But because he was a pit bull, suddenly the dog was vicious.

The dog was lucky, he was not destroyed, but sent to a special place out in the country where vicious types of dogs are taken.

I don’t know what the laws in California are about vicious dogs, but it sounds to me that maybe there needs to be stricter rules for people who own them. A simple fence and gate won’t work. Maybe they need to be forced to install electronic fences. They start out at about 300 bucks. My daughter has one for her boxer. It goes around her fence and gate, and the dog wears a collar. If the dog attempts to leave the yard, she gets a jolt of electricity. Not super strong, but teaches her to stay in the yard.

If people were required even in the country to have those, first the cost might change their minds about owning the dogs, and second if their homeowners insurance required this, well, maybe they would listen.

Unfortunately, one bad thing about Colorado: You can do more prison time for hurting a dog than a spouse or child.

I feel very bad for the people who have been terrorized by these animals. I hope that the owners of the dogs were also punished — maybe jail time and fines and paying through the nose to the people who suffered.

‘Masters’ not just for expert swimmers

Four years ago the City of Winters and the Winters Joint Unified School District got together to build a new pool for our community. At that time I was coaching the summer league recreation team and the high school swim team.

I was approached to coach a newly formed Masters team here in town and have been head coach of the Winters Aquatic Club, the local Masters swimming club, since then.

“Masters” may be a misleading term when one considers what we truly are. The goals of this program are to provide exercise options and an opportunity to pursue a healthy lifestyle for anyone in our community.

Having the name “Masters,” I believe, may have convinced some of our town’s residents to feel that in order to be a Masters swimmer you need to be a master swimmer — that is, a real expert with a long and complex swimming background. That perception is sort of off the mark.

In the four years that we have had a program, we have had a wide variety of swimmers come into our program, from one swimmer who was swimming to recover from a stroke to someone who had just moved to town and wanted some form of exercise other than running, to folks who can barely negotiate the pool from one end to the other.

I have had the privilege of coaching all of these swimmers, as well as some who are truly outstanding experienced swimmers, and I am convinced that the more people that we can get out to our pool, the better.

I believe that we can show anyone that we are not an organization solely for the advanced swimmer, but an organization for anyone who wants to be there and take advantage of all the benefits a structured swimming/exercise program can offer.

If you are someone who thinks you would like to try swimming but are intimidated by our name, I encourage you to come down to our pool Monday through Friday from 6-7 a.m. or from 6-7 p.m. and try it out. If you do, I will give you a personal lesson to help you into our program and assure that you will be swimming with others who are of equal abilities. Whether you know how to swim or not, I guarantee that I can turn you into a swimming fan and that you can find a place in our organization.

It’s never too late to join the Winters Aquatic Club’s Masters swimming. We are looking forward to more adult community members joining us in the Bobbie Greenwood Community Swim Center Pool. Please visit the club website at <http://winter-saquaticclub.member-lodge.org> for more information or stop by the pool during a workout for a free trial swim and check us out.

Registration forms are available online and at the pool. You need not be an experienced swimmer to join the Winters Aquatic Club, but you must be at least 18 years old. The coaches will help you with your strokes and teach you how to be a more efficient swimmer.

Call Dave Kelley, 795-2265, for more information, or check in with me or another coach at the pool.

These Friends really rock

I just want to say “thank you” to the Winters Friends of the Library. All the summer activities sponsored by them at the library have made my kids’ summer a fun and educational experience, not to mention easy on the pocketbook for parents: free.

Just ask any of the parents who have their kids enrolled in “Can-Do Camp” and they will agree: The Winters Friends of the Library rocks!

Love is strange

Our editor, Debra, has mentioned on more than one occasion that she loves Obama. Obama, the charming orator who, early on, wrote “The Audacity of Hope” but has since demonstrated the audacity of bad governing.

Like a bully, he forces a freedom-destroying federal government grab and bag menu that swallows up our financial, health, automobile, housing and other industries. At the same time spending, spending, spending our grandchildren’s monies-not-to-be and making thousands of pages of new regulations and unfunded mandates setting us up for an economic storm that will make us all nutty before it’s through.

How will it feel to us to be robots forced to dance to the bureaucrat’s people-grinder tune? Ow! And ouch!!

It sounds goofy that our skeptical and independent editor has a crush on our leader... but love’s like that.

Nothing says Independence day like Fourth of July fireworks in Philadelphia

Ah, to lie on your back in the grass on the Fourth of July, the black summer sky bursting with glittery pinks and greens and golds — definitely a Life Is Good moment. My favorite fireworks are the ones that burst, followed by wacky little sizzlers that skitter around. I also love the duds that just flash and go BOOM!!! right into your bones.

Thankfully, fireworks haven’t changed much over the years... they hiss into the sky, pause for a breath, and then scatter rainbow sparkles from the heavens. Pure joy. The “oohs” and “ahhs” haven’t changed much either.

Even the “safe and sane” fireworks (which are actually neither) are basically the same good old fireworks of my youth, save for outrageous prices. You might as well light $10 bills on fire and throw them into the air. It’s truly nutty to incinerate the equivalent of a week’s worth of groceries, then sweep it up and throw it away. Logically, I know this. But... they’re so much fun! And nothing makes you feel 8 years old again like the screech of a Piccolo Pete or the smoky, sulfury smell of those snakey things.

One thing that has changed over the years, however, is sparklers. These sad, tired little fizzle sticks they call “sparklers” nowadays are nothing like the red, gold and green Red Devil classics of the ‘60s.

One of my fondest Fourth of July memories is lighting up a gold sparkler (the strongest, of course!) and holding it close enough to my empty palm for the little fiery arrows to bounce off with little stings. When it finally petered out, I loved writing my name in glowing orange trails in the air with the hot spent wire. Which is probably the reason real sparklers disappeared — the hot wire. Some dufus kid had to go pick it up and burn his pudgy hand, and then mommy and daddy threatened to sue, and there you go. No more sparklers.

Back in the day, kids who picked up red-hot spent sparklers only did it once. It’s called “learning.” Squirt some Bactine on it and get over it. Kids were just tougher then, probably from taking one too many headers off our Sting-Rays without helmets and knee pads, and no parents hovering over us every moment except to pick the asphalt out of the skinned knee, slap on a band-aid and point us back outside.

Kids today. Much mushier, these American Children 2.0.

So. Fireworks. I admit it. I’m a freak for fireworks. One of my lifelong dreams was to spend the Fourth of July in America’s most patriotic city — Philadelphia — and The Cutest Man In The World (now, AKA my husband) made that happen several years ago, flying both my daughter and me there to spend Independence Day on the very ground where Washington, Franklin and Jefferson once walked.

Wow-freakin-eee!

What a day. We toured the Betsy Ross House and bought a handmade 13-Star American flag, and visited Ben Franklin’s printing shop where they still print souvenir Declarations of Independence on the old presses. We dined at the Moshulu, an historic tall ship permanently docked at Penn’s Landing and converted to a restaurant, and as the blue sky faded to black over the Delaware River, it was time to head downtown for the fireworks. At last!

Yes, we’d planned every detail. Except researching the difficulty of getting a cab in Philadelphia on the Fourth of July just before the fireworks start. Big mistake. Not even the Moshulu maitre d’ could find us a cab in less than an hour — about 30 minutes too late.

It was hopeless. We walked back to the hotel, and our respective daughters were tired and bored, and went to the room to crash. TCMITW and I ended up in the hotel bar, along with a few locals watching a ballgame on TV. On the Fourth of July!

This simply would not do. It was Philadelphia, and I was gonna see those damn fireworks, even if it was on TV. So, I whined and whimpered about patriotism and tradition until they changed the channel just to shut me up.

We all stared up silently at the glittering downtown display on the screen, patriotic music blaring, close-ups of children’s faces glowing in wonder, and one of the gruffies finally mumbled, “It is kinda cool.” Said another, “Lived here all my life, never watched it before.”

That was a personal victory — introducing Philadelphians to patriotism. But, oh, the bitter irony. Finally in Philadelphia on the Fourth, watching the fireworks on TV. To double down the irony, back home in Winters, there would’ve been a full, flashy fireworks display just blocks from my house.

But, before you dab tears over my Philadelphia fireworks fiasco, rest assured, there is a consolation. A couple years later, one random summer night, TCMITW and I were in Philadelphia because I was catching an early flight out the next morning. We were walking along Benjamin Franklin Parkway when suddenly fireworks started bursting over the Philadelphia Art Museum, for no apparent reason. It was a weeknight, and the Parkway was relatively empty — just me and him, arm in arm, watching our own personal fireworks display. It was magical.

I finally got my Philadelphia fireworks. It didn’t happen the way I’d imagined, but it was definitely a Life Is Good moment, nonetheless. And thank goodness for the memories. I’ll have to be satisfied with those, now that our annual fireworks display here in Winters has been cancelled. Philadelphia is great and all, but in the end, fireworks here at home were the best of all.

will be dispersed is still up for discussion. Donlevy clarified that Measure W was proposed as a way to address the desperate need for increased public safety in Winters.

“Measure W wasn’t put on the ballot to cure deficit that we had. We cured most of that with cuts,” Donlevy said, noting that all city management staff took a 10 percent cut in benefits, cutting close to $400,000 dollars of the city’s whopping $530,000 deficit. “Measure W and tax increases were based on the fact that we have a void in the ability to provide public safety.”

Winters Police Chief Bruce Muramoto confirmed the need for more public safety funding, explaining that the police department staff is currently so sparse that many times only one officer is on duty at a time. Muramoto insisted that the police department needs two more officers to truly be up to par.

“Money is like a lifeline to run organizations and we were bleeding out,” Muramoto said. “It’s really imperative that we hire police officers. There are ‘gotta haves’ and ‘nice to haves’. This is a ‘gotta have’.”

Similarly, Winters Fire Chief Scott Dozier said that the funding attained through Measure W would help the dwindling fire department in Winters, which employs only four staff members and relies heavily on volunteers for fire service. With funding from Measure W, the fire department can implement a 24-hour sleeper program, which would ensure that fire fighters are on call to respond to emergencies 24 hours per day.

However, Dozier addressed the complexity of the funding disbursement, saying, “Public safety is a big part of the puzzle, but so is the Community Center and the pool. There’s not just one side of the puzzle you need to look at.”

While decisions still need to be made by the city council about how the funding will be spent, Donlevy said residents can expect to see visible results from Measure W in the near future.

“My sense is that people will start seeing some things over the course of the next year. Probably as early as six months,” Donlevy said. “My guess is that probably in the next 6-8 months, we’ll see two more police officers.”

Donlevy also predicted that the fire department’s 24-hour call system will be implemented in the spring of 2011, following the station’s relocation to West Grant Street and W. Main Street.

City council members will meet on July 6, in an open discussion at the next city council meeting, to discuss the disbursement of Measure W funds, as well as ways to support the city’s dwindling economy. With the passage of Measure W, the city still faces an estimated $100,000 deficit, due in large part to state take-aways and down-spiraling property tax rates.

As an example of tough decisions the city council will be faced with, Donlevy noted that one of the most drastic ideas to save costs is to turn off three out of every four streetlights in the city.

“We have to do things economically for the city,” Donlevy said, explaining he plans to keep pushing for local economic growth. “On the 6th, we aren’t really going to change our tune to advance Winters economically. If we don’t, the city could find itself in an even worse situation down the road.”

Allocations for Measure W will be on the next city council agenda on Tuesday, July 6. The meeting begins at 6:30 p.m. in the concil chambers at City Hall. Any interested Winters resident is welcome to attend.

“There appears to not be much, if any, damage to the panel,” says Maguire. “At this point, it will be stored at the city corp yard with the other panels until Jeff

Winters wins Davis World Cup again

◆ Second straight title, third in four years for U19 boys team

By ERIC LUCERO
Express sports correspondents

The Winters AYSO U19 boys soccer team won the Davis World Cup for the second straight season and the third title in four years in Davis on Memorial Day weekend. This was the 24th annual Davis World Cup Invitational Tournament. The Davis World Cup is the premier AYSO Tournament with 120 teams competing from Northern and Southern California and Nevada. Under the direction of head coach Alfredo Rodriguez, the Winters team has become the team to beat.

The Winters team known as “Seychelles” started out against “El Salvador” of San Jose and won a close game 1-0 on May 29. Dagoberto Fierros scored the games’ only goal to give Winters the victory.

“We did not know anything about them,” Rodriguez said. “They were a quick and tall team that was defensively well organized. Both teams had opportunities to score but only Dago was able to.”

In game two of the day, Winters beat “Cuba” from Antelope, 3-0.

“Antelope was very fast and very physical,” Rodriguez said. “Rodrigo Salas and Salvador Rodríguez scored for us in the first half, while Manuel Loza added the final goal on a penalty kick for the 3-0 win.”

Winters went into the next day with a 2-0 record but the team was stopped by “Malta” of American Canyon, 1-0. This game decided who would be the No. 1 team in the bracket. Winters then had to play “St. Kitts and Nevis” of Davis in the quarterfinals.

“They were an extremely fast and organized team which complicated things for us,” coach Rodriguez said.

Davis World Cup Invitational Soccer Tournament champions include (bottom row): Paul Peña, José Muñoz, Ricardo Rodríguez, Manuel Loza, Ricardo Peña, Orlando Rodríguez, Manuel Gamino, Omar Herrera, Eduardo Torres and (top row): Alejandro Rodriguez, Coach Ricando Peña, Humberto Gamino, Salvador Rodríguez, Fernando Cervantes, Tobias Vasquez, Dagoberto Fierros, Miguel Rodríguez, José Ceja, Max Fuentes, Rodrigo Salas and Coach Alfredo Rodríguez.

“It was a scoreless game until Fernando Cervantes scored on a header with about 4 minutes left in the game to give us the 1-0 win.”

After playing two games on May 30, Winters had a 3-1 record going into the semifinals against “Guyana” of Capay. Both the semifinals and the finals would be played on May 31.

Winters came out strong and scored quickly to take control of the game early on as Fierros scored in the first minute and a half of the game.

“That motivated us for the rest of the match,” the Winters coach said. “Soon after, Omar Herrera scored on a penalty for us. He then added another to put us up by three. Capay was able to score two goals, but we also answered with two more of our own to win 5-2.”

In the championship game, Winters had to face American Canyon.

“They went ahead within the first 10 minutes of the match which was a wake up call for us,” coach Rodriguez said. “Time passed before we could get anything going, but eventually Ricardo Peña headed the equalizer over the keeper and defender. Max Fuentes later scored another goal for us off a header to give us the 2-1 lead.”

The half ended with the same score but the Winters boys were not finished yet.

“Cervantes celebrated his birthday by scoring another goal for us with his head to give us a two-goal lead,” coach Rodriguez said. “American Canyon would get another goal, but we were able to contain their attack the remainder of the match. With the 3-2 win, we were able to repeat as Davis World Cup Champions, our third in four years.

Warriors scrimmage Pioneer on Thursday

By ERIC LUCERO
Express sports

If you're waiting until August for football to start, then you're missing the boat. The Winters High School football program has started its weight lifting, practices and passing league, and is getting ready to go to the first camp of the summer in Woodland at Pioneer High School.

The Warriors started their camp on Monday, June 28, and will finish on Thursday, July 1. The first three days will be more of a practice format and some small scrimmages starting at 3 p.m.

The camp will end with a full-contact scrimmage against Pioneer on Thursday, July 1, at 8:15 p.m. The JV teams are scheduled to start at 7 p.m.

The Warriors already have started their passing league on Thursdays at Will C. Wood High School and competed in a seven-on-seven passing league tournament in Durham last Saturday, June 26. Winters won three out of four in its bracket, beat Hamilton City in the first round of the playoff tournament and then lost in overtime to Orland in the semi-finals.

"It was a great experience with good competition," said coach Daniel Ward. "It helps us learn our plays with live competition without pads on."

Jesus Quirarte snaps the ball to quarterback Sean Faulk, while tailback Jacob Lucero gets ready to go out for a pass during a seven-on-seven passing league tournament in Durham on June 26. Coach Daniel Ward watches from behind with Trevor Wright, Keli Callison, Kyle Nichols, Brentley Weissman and Zach Higgins.

Popular asthma drugs carry dire warning

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I started treatment for asthma for the first time at age 80. At first I took prednisone and albuterol. Then I had a Pulmicort inhaler. Now I am on Symbicort. The material that comes with this medicine advises that this LABA (long-acting beta agonist) may increase the chance of death from asthma. Exactly what is this telling me? -- E.S.

ANSWER: With asthma, there is a sudden constriction of the breathing tubes (bronchi), along with the production of thick mucus. Both block the flow of air into the lungs, and both cause asthma symptoms -- shortness of breath, wheezing and coughing. Asthma changes are reversible. Asthma medications come in three major categories. One is quick-action medicines, the kind that get to work fast to open the breathing tubes. Many of these medicines are SABAs, short-acting beta agonists. Albuterol is one example. Beta agonists dilate bronchi. Too-frequent use of the short-acting beta agonists indicates poor asthma control. They should be used only for an acute attack, and attacks should be infrequent.

The second category is cortisone drugs, the potent suppressors of inflammation. They calm airways and prevent their constriction. They also decrease mucus production. Taken by mouth, cortisone drugs have unpleasant side effects when used for long periods in high doses. Taken by inhaler, the side effects are few. Pulmicort is a cortisone-inhaler drug.

The third category of drug is long-acting drugs, drugs that keep the airways less twitchy for prolonged periods. Long-acting beta agonists, LABAs, belong in this category. LABA drugs have been noted to increase the risk of serious asthma attacks, which ended in fatalities for a few. That was in the days when they were used alone. Now they have been incorporated into preparations combined with cortisone drugs. Since these dual preparations have come to the market, no drug-related asthma fatalities have been reported. The warning still exists because a LABA is part of the drug. You don't need to worry about your medicine, Symbicort. It's a dual medicine.

The asthma booklet explains in detail this common malady. To order a copy, write to: Dr. Donohue -- No. 602W, Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475. Enclose a check or money order (no cash) for $4.75 U.S./$6 Canada with the recipient's printed name and address. Please allow four weeks for delivery. ***

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: A while back, you had information in your column about ear trouble while on a plane. This spring, we went on an airplane for my grandson's graduation. On the flight back, my granddaughter got a terrible earache. I had the same trouble a year previously. She was crying, and we didn't know what to do. What causes this, and what can be done for it? -- B.L.

ANSWER: The earache comes from an imbalance of pressure on the outside and inside of the eardrum. It happens on ascent and descent, but it's more common on descent. The pressure imbalance pushes the eardrum inward. That is painful.

Hundreds of readers wrote to me about Ear-Planes Ear Plugs, found in many drugstores. These earplugs lessen pressure on the eardrum. I'm convinced they work well.

Other tricks to equalize pressure include repeated yawning, gum-chewing and plugging the nose between thumb and index finger while forcing air out of the nose. ***

Dr. Donohue regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters, but he will incorporate them in his column whenever possible. Readers may write him or request an order form of available health newsletters at P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475.

Making some noise about the noise

Yes, folks we've got trouble right here in River City! I'm talking about noise. Loud noise, and plenty of it. If you get a full night's sleep in this city, why you're an exception to the rule.

I can't remember the last time I got a good night's sleep, and I eat a whole handful of pills to make me sleep. I take Dianzapine to put me to sleep. I take Clonazepam to keep me from dreaming my little nightmares. I take Citalopram Hydrobromide to keep me in a good mood. I also take Propanolol, and this is a funny one, prior to an event of anxiety nerves. I don't know what that means.

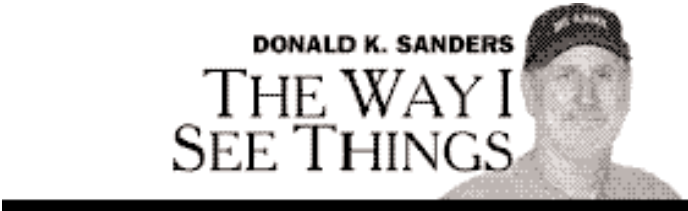

I take all of these pills because my Veteran's Administration psychiatrist says I have a problem sleeping. He says it's common among combat veterans. Well, DUH!

If combat experiences have so much to do with it, why can't my wife get a full night's sleep either? She never saw combat except in the movies. She doesn't take all those pills either.

I think that the VA hands out all those expensive pills because the government has to supplement all the pharmaceutical companies by buying their pills, and the politicians own a lot of their stock. Thus, a pill-pushing Veteran's Administration.

There is a very simple explanation as to why my wife and I can't get a full night's sleep. This is the noisiest town in Yolo County. Especially around my house. I think that the city pays people to make noise just to annoy me in the middle of the night.

I'll lay it out for you. Not 50 feet from my house there is a refrigeration compressor on the top of the building across the street. I complained about it by writing a "Letter to the Editor" on Jan. 19, 2006. It was right under Debra's column on the opinion page. It was over a year before anyone did anything about that noise and then they did exactly what they should not have done.

I told the city that I would pay for a sound barrier around the compressor but my offer was rejected and a layer of sheet metal was wrapped around it. You can see it shining on top of the roof at around 3 p.m. because it reflects a beam of light through my window that's so bright, I have to watch TV with my sunglasses on.

I appreciate the effort to block the noise, but the sheet metal acts like a horn that directs the noise directly at my bedroom window. A perfect shot if I do say so. After about eight years we got used to that racket and, with a handful of pills, I can go to sleep. I can't stay asleep, but I do go to sleep.

This brings us to noise Number Two, Three, and Four. For some reason, unknown to God and man, there are three guys that park their semi trucks and trailers within 100 feet of my bedroom window. In turn, each truck starts their engine and then builds up their air pressure by revving their engines for 30 minutes.

They can't do it all at one time, one starts up at 2 a.m., one starts up at 3 a.m., and the third starts up at 4 a.m. Have you ever had a semi truck engine revved by your window in the middle of the night? Well, I do every night.

In either direction, within 10 feet of these dumb truckers, there is a parking lot where the noise would be deflected out and away from any house by huge buildings. Other truckers park in there -- why can't these three dummies do the same thing? I'll tell you why. These people do not give a damn how much noise they make or where they make it.

What is so sad for us Winters citizens is the fact that our elected officials don't give a damn either. They could care less if a truck parks by my window so that I wake up with a start thinking a tank is rolling through my house.

I know that the City of Winters doesn't care because I've been writing letters and emails to them for years now. When they told me they couldn't measure the noise because they had no sound meter, I bought them one and took it to their office. I don't think anyone at City Hall knows how to read it. If they're not going to use it to gather information about the sources of noise, I want it back. Gimme my meter back, you chumps!

OK, noise source Number Five is about 500 feet from my window. Every Friday and Saturday night, someone bangs on a set of drums until one in the morning at the bar on the corner of Abbey and Railroad. It doesn't matter if they actually know how to play the drums or not because they are just a timer for the trucks to start when the drums stop.

I tell you what I'm going to do. I'm going to go to the VA and get about 500 disabled veterans to help me march down to City Hall and make some noise. Noise is a prime subject in our group sessions at Mathers Field. It is the noise that fills our heads with horror. On top of that, the lack of sleep makes me a real dumb(bleep).

Go ahead and laugh at my situation, but this city has a growing noise problem. No one at City Hall gives a damn about it, and sooner or later, those dumb truckers are going to drive past your house at 2 a.m., and you're not going to like it either.

Pleased to meet you

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Making things more complicated than they need to be can be a problem for the typically orderly Lamb. Try to look for a less intricate way to accomplish the same goals. TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Avoiding personal involvement in a troubling situation might be advisable at this time, especially since you probably don't have all the facts. The weekend brings a surprise. GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) A problem with a colleague you thought had been resolved could recur. However, this time you'll be able to rely on your record to get a quick resolution in your favor. Good luck. CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Giving your self-esteem a boost could be a good idea for the Moon Child, who might feel a bit daunted by the week's occurrences. Just focus on all your positive accomplishments. LEO (July 23 to August 22) The "mane" attraction for the Lovable Lion this week is -- what else? -- love. New relationships move to new levels, while long-standing partnerships are strengthened. VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) A recent workplace problem will prove to be one of miscommunication, and once the matter is settled, you should have a better chance of getting your proposals approved. LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Good news! After dealing pretty much in the dark with a matter that seemed to be taking forever to resolve, you should soon be seeing the light at the end of the tunnel. SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) A positive message should help lift that energy-draining sense of anxiety, and you should soon be able to deal with even the peskiest matter, whether at work or personal. SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Try to control that heated Sagittarian temperament while dealing with what you believe to be an unfair matter. A cool approach is the best way to handle things. CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Nursing hurt feelings could keep you from learning what went wrong. Ask your partner, a family member or a trusted friend to help you reassess your actions in the matter. AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Nature is dominant this week. Try to spend time outdoors with someone special. An act of kindness in the past might be recalled by a person you believed was out of your life. PISCES (February 19 to March 20) An upcoming career decision could be based on how well you might be able to apply your artistic talents. Be sure to use the finest samples of your work to make a strong impression. BORN THIS WEEK: Doing good things for others comes easily to you. You are considered a good friend, even by those you might hardly know.

Notice of Public Hearing

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the City of Winters will conduct a public hearing by the Planning Commission on Tuesday, July 13, 2010 at 5:00 p.m. at the City Hall, City Council Chambers, 318 First Street, Winters, California, to consider the adoption of an ordinance amending Chapter 17.96 (Alcoholic Beverage Establishments) of the Winters Municipal Code.

Staff has received inquiries from potential business owners concerning the City's regulations governing alcoholic beverage establishments in the central business district, which is also known as the Downtown Form Based Code area as defined in Chapter 17.58 of the Winters Municipal Code. On-site, the Winters Municipal Code states that no on-sale liquor establishments shall be authorized or maintained within 200 feet of sensitive uses in the central business district. Sensitive uses include schools (public and private); established churches or places of worship; hospitals, clinics, or other health care facilities; public parks, playgrounds, or other recreational uses; or other on-sale liquor establishments. With the current business/uses in the downtown in combination with the current municipal code, it is difficult for additional on-sale liquor establishments (including wine tasting rooms) to locate in the downtown. Based upon this, City staff is of the opinion that the Winters Municipal Code should be amended to offer appropriate regulations for these businesses in the downtown.

The purpose of the public hearing will be to provide citizens an opportunity to make their comments known. If you are unable to attend the public hearing, you may direct written comments to the City of Winters, Community Development Agency, 318 First Street, Winters, CA 95694 or nelia.dyer@cityofwinters.org. In addition, the staff report will be available on the City's website at http://cityofwinters.org/administrative/admin_council.htm starting Thursday, July 8, 2010.

In compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act, if you are a disabled person and you need a disability-related modification or accommodation to participate in these hearings, please contact City Clerk Nanci Mills at (530) 795-4910, ext. 101. Please make your request as early as possible and at least one full business day before the start of the hearing.

The City does not transcribe its hearings. If you wish to obtain a verbatim record of the proceedings, you must arrange for attendance by a court reporter or for some other means of recordation. Such arrangements will be at your sole expense.

If you wish to challenge the action taken on this matter in court, the challenge may be limited to raising only those issues raised at the public hearing described in this notice, or in written correspondence delivered to the City Council prior to the public hearing.

For more information regarding this agenda item, please contact Nelia Dyer, Community Development Director at (530) 795-4910, ext. 114.

STRANGE BUT TRUE By Samantha Weaver

• It was U.S. President Dwight David Eisenhower who made the following comment: "I can think of nothing more boring for the American people than to have to sit in their living rooms for a whole half hour looking at my face on their television screens."

• What we call coffee beans are actually the pits of the coffee beans.

• The dew that accumulates on May Day was once thought to have near-miraculous qualities. The mother of a sick child might rub a blanket across the wet grass on May Day morning to coat it with dew, then wrap the child in the blanket. May Day dew gathered from a fennel plant was thought to cure maladies of the eye, and itchy skin was sometimes treated by rubbing it with the dew. Dew from under an oak tree supposedly made a woman beautiful for a year, and dew gathered before sunrise on May Day morning reputedly brought good luck.

• Despite numerous arrests and trials, famed 19th-century outlaw Frank James was never convicted of anything and never went to prison. He died in 1915, at the age of 72, of natural causes.

• If you're like the average American, you laugh 15 times every day.

• In Germany, Rice Krispies don't say "Snap, Crackle, Pop"; they say "Knisper, Knasper, Knusper."

• You may be surprised to learn that fast-food giant McDonald's has trademarked the following phrases: "Made for You," "Immunize for Healthy Lives," "Changing the Face of the World," "Gospelfest," "Lifting Kids to a Better Tomorrow" and, perhaps most bizarrely, "Hey, It Could Happen!"

• At one time in England, there was a unit of length called a nail. It measured 2.5 inches long.

Thought for the Day: "Hope is the feeling you have that the feeling you have isn't permanent."
